Co-Conspirators Brewing Company. VIC

The brainchild of two couples – Jacqui Sacco, Tim Martin, Maggie and Deon Smit, the origins of Co-Conspirators Brewing started off as a hobby, but quickly became an obsession.

They are an independent brewing company that has started their journey partnering with great brewers across Melbourne to grow and learn from the craft beer family.

Batch Brewing Co. NSW

In 2013 Chris Sidwa and Andrew Fineran took a chance on a warehouse in Marrickville, rolled in a small brewing kit and launched the Batch Brewing Company.

The choice of brewery name reflected their concept, one that would eschew a broad range of core beers in favour of just a couple of regulars and a rapidly changing array of single batches

The Belgium Collection

Brewing in Belgium dates back to at least the 12th century. Under the Catholic Church's permission, local French and Flemish abbeys brewed and distributed beer as a fund raising method. The relatively low-alcohol beer of that time was preferred as a sanitary option to available drinking water. What are now traditional, artisanal brewing methods evolved, under abbey supervision, over the next seven centuries
